

1- it stores and sends frames and messages to users and to devices

2- hub / switch

3- A router joins two networks together, while a modem translates one language to another in a network

4- Because switches are more intelligent