

In this project, my group had many strengths and a few weaknesses. Some of our strengths were that we worked very well together and had no problems that limited our work. Each person in our group also covered a weakness that another person had. A weakness that we faced was that our communication was sometimes not very clear.

Tasha and I worked well together, and I faced no issues with her. She brought a lot of knowledge about design to our project that I benefited from. She is also good at researching and did all parts required of her fully.

I faced no problems with Chelsea as we are good friends outside of school. Because of her art skills, our brochure looked visually appealing.

Overall the group worked well together with everyone doing the parts required of them. We gave each other honest feedback and took into account each other's opinions. The main setback we faced was miscommunication, which did not limit the project greatly.
