

English Language Transactional Writing

Article Writing

Which would achieve the highest mark and why?

Answer 1

Some people say that these are the best days of your life. But if you think of exams, spots and the problems of boy/girl relationships, it's obvious that it isn't easy to live through. Just because you're sixteen and no longer a child, it doesn't mean you've sorted out your life. Yet you are expected to.

Which did it best?

Most suitable for audience

Uses a range of connectives to help it flow

A range of sentences

Accurate punctuation

Answer 2

The best days of your life indeed. What a load of nonsense! This myth, put around by people too old to remember what it really was like to be sixteen, needs exploding ... now! Stress, angst and terror might be more appropriate descriptions. From the yuckiness of exploding blackheads, to the pressure of oncoming GCSE exams; from the black hole of an unknown future to the known-by-everybody humiliation of being ignored by the boy or girl of your dreams. This is what it is like.

Add additional features to the answer that you think is lowest to improve it.

Word Bank

Vocabulary		Sentence Openers	Techniques You Could Use
impolite	forward-looking	Unsurprisingly,	statistics
anxiety	weary	Undeniably,	alliteration
fearful	stress	Considering the ways that...	personal pronouns
reduce	peaceful

